The Benefits of Water Therapy

Water applications can make a significant contribution as a preventive measure to actively boost the health of an individual. They also ensure balance, well-being and life-force energy every day.

Along with a balanced diet, regular exercise and enough sleep, specific water applications focusing on Dornbracht's three pillars:

Kneipp, Aquapressure and Bliss can be an important part of a health-conscious lifestyle.

Kneipp Therapy

Kneipp therapy is a recognised holistic approach to health and wellness that involves treating the body, mind and soul through hot and cold water through affusions, also known as Kneipping.

Kneipp treatments are designed to strengthen the body's natural defences as well as the cardiovascular system. Kneipp water therapy also boosts the metabolism, enhances the health of the skin, and leads to a balanced autonomic nervous system.

Aquapressure

Based on the tried and tested principles of Traditional Chinese Medicine, Aquapressure therapy combines two widely used therapies: acupuncture and massage, with the healing power of water to restore your mind, body and soul.

When pressure is exerted on the meridians and pressure points as well as soft tissues of the body using Aquapressure therapy, it can lead to increased blood in the skin and muscles, ease away blockages and tension and can also have a positive effect on the psyche in cases of anxiety or insomnia.

Bliss

The concept of happiness is more closely aligned with well-being and in turn, well-being is more closely associated with health.

Tension is relieved, everyday stress is washed away and the body and mind experience are revitalised.

A range of home spa products combine various shower health benefits and function as personal retreats - creating moments of happiness and bliss.

The Benefits of Steam

Water is health, even when it is a cloud of steam that envelops the body. Seated on marble or natural stone, enveloped in a light mist, you inhale warm steam that helps clear your lungs, your perspiration flushes out toxins and you are detached from your surroundings as you listen to your body.

Dense, pure steam with evenly distributed warmth: this is what makes a Hammam such a unique and unforgettable experience. In the steam bath the humidity reaches 100% and the temperature never exceeds 48°C.

The combined action of the steam and the controlled heat assists the blood and lymph circulation system, dissolving toxins and favouring their expulsion.

Release Tension

Relax and rejuvenate with the high-tech features & benefits of an Effe Steam Bath – including aromatherapy, Chromotherapy and music to help relieve tension and restore balance of body and mind.

Skin Cleansing

The heat dilates the blood vessels which improves the circulation, producing a positive tonic effect. The pores in the skin also dilate leading to a deep cleansing of the skin and thorough purification, which results in softer, more elastic skin with a great glow.

A More Supple Body

Only when steam is pure does it feel so good on our body: our skin absorbs the warm water vapour, becoming softer and regenerated.

The Benefits of Sauna

A sauna is a bath of very warm, dry air taken in a closed environment made of natural wood in which a special appliance heats and dehumidifies the air.

The heat in a Finnish sauna can reach temperatures up to 100°C but the low humidity (20-30%) transforms this into a pleasant embrace that relaxes the muscles and stimulates bodily purification.

The Bio-sauna (including the Effe Yoku) is a sauna with a special bio-sauna stove that creates the perfect balance between heat and humidity with temperatures ranging from 50 to 60°C and humidity between 60-70%.

Release Tension

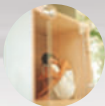

The sauna has extraordinary relaxing and detoxing properties, with positive influences on both body and mind. The sauna stimulates the natural process of restoring physical and mental balance.

Skin Cleansing

The skin is purified as sweating and eliminates acids and toxins. The autonomic nervous system is stimulated, improving overall metabolism.

The deep cleansing action leaves your skin looking clear and glowing.

A More Supple Body

From a beauty perspective, regular use of the sauna together with a healthy diet, reduces cellulite and makes the body tissues more elastic.
